

Robot Pets

It is often difficult for people living in Japan to keep pets at home. Today, however, these people can experience playing with robot pets at their houses. Some companies make a variety of robot pets to play with, and by doing so they attract many consumers. These robots will probably become even more common.

