

Reducing Food Wastes

Today, some companies have started delivering the foods in new ways. These companies deliver the foods that are close to the expiration date. They package and sell those foods in reasonable price, and in this way they help people to reduce the waste of foods. In the future, those services will probably become more popular.

