

Better Pet Care

These days, many types of workers in Japan's pet industry are attracting attention, especially staff who have animal health knowledge. This is because many owners are busy and sometimes have a difficult time caring for their pets. The government encourages companies to hire such staff, and in this way it helps pets to live healthier lives.

Your story should begin with this sentence: One day, Mariko and her son Masashi were talking about buying a pet at the pet shop.

