

Better Pet Care

These days, many types of workers in Japan's pet industry are attracting attention, especially staff who have animal health knowledge. This is because many owners are busy and sometimes have a difficult time caring for their pets. The government encourages companies to hire such staff, and in this way it helps pets to live healthier lives.

Your story should begin with this sentence: One day, Mariko and her son Masashi were talking about buying a pet at the pet shop.

Better Pet Care

These days, many types of workers in Japan's pet industry are attracting attention, especially staff who have animal health knowledge. This is because many owners are busy and sometimes have a difficult time caring for their pets. The government encourages companies to hire such staff, and in this way it helps pets to live healthier lives.

---

No.1 According to the passage, how does the government help pets to live healthier lives?

By encouraging companies to hire staff who have animal health knowledge.

Your story should begin with this sentence: One day, Mariko and her son Masashi were talking about buying a pet at the pet shop.

One day, Mariko and her son Masashi were talking about buying a pet at the pet shop. Masashi said to his mother, "I want to have a pet at home." Thirty minutes later, Masashi was looking at a cat in a cage. At the same time, Mariko was looking at a dog and thinking about walking it. Later at home, Masashi wanted to give the dog some food. Mariko was happy to see her son enjoy spending time with their new pet.

No.3 Some people say that, in the future, people will spend too much money on pet care. What do you think about that?

---

I agree. Pets are becoming more like family members, so owners may want to buy expensive products. Also, companies will keep making new services that cost a lot of money.

I disagree. Technology will make pet care cheaper in the future. Also, new products and services will be more efficient and save money for owners.

No.4

These days, smartphone addiction is becoming a big problem among young people. Do you think students should limit their screen time every day?

---

Yes(Why?)

Too much screen time can harm their health.

Also, it can reduce the time they spend studying or talking with family.

No(Why not?)

Smartphones are useful tools for learning.

Also, students can use them to stay connected with their friends.